Come join us as we make our 2018 return to the Ivoryton Playhouse in Connecticut. This is our annual trip to the Ivoryton and the only one we repeat year after year as so many of you have asked to go back to the theater and Griswold Inn. The Queens of the Golden Mask by Carole Lockwood is a world premier.

Set in Alabama in 1962, this stunning new play about a group of mothers and daughters takes us from church picnics and summer camp to the secrets and hypocrisy that lie just beneath the surface.

Before the show, we will enjoy the Sunday Hunt Breakfast at the Griswold Inn in Essex which has been there since 1776. The breakfast is lavishly laid out buffet-style. The Hunt Breakfast was started by the British when they occupied the Griswold Inn during the War of 1812.

Breakfast Sampling (subject to change): Fresh fruit salad; freshly-baked cornbread and scones; scrambled eggs; fruitwood smoked bacon and link sausage; omelet station with assorted meats, vegetables, and cheeses; Belgian waffle station with assorted fruit toppings, nuts, chocolate sauce, whipped cream, and warm maple syrup; pecan and caramel French toast soufflé; mixed salad of assorted greens with sparkling vinaigrette; penne pasta with feta cheese, red onions and artichoke hearts tossed in olive oil and herbs; two-bean salad with corn and red wine vinaigrette, zucchini and carrots; home fries; herb-roasted chicken au jus; baked cod with a tomato cream sauce; and chocolate brownie pudding.

Walking info: Very limited amount of walking (in/out of restaurant and theater)
